JOTTINGS.

The Riverside is the best appointed hotel east of San Francisco and west of Chicago.

Jake Becker keeps two bar keepers busy drawing beer and three waiters busy serving his customers at lunch time every day.

He—"Darling, do you love me?" She—"Just a little bit, but I will love you much better and give you a bushel of kisses besides if you will buy me one of those elegant diamonds of Richard Herz." She got it is needless to say.

To Dispel Colds. Headache and Fever, to cleanse the system effectually, yet gently, when coughs or biliousness, or when the blood is impure or sluggish to permanently cure habitual constipation, to awaken the kidneys and liver to a healthy activity, without irritating or weakening them, use Syrup of Figs.

At the Harvest of Death. Much grain is prematurely reaped by the scythe of disease that might have ripened to a golden maturity if "minor" bodily troubles had been attended to in time. Nothing is truer than this—bodily ailments not only grow apace, but beget one another. Thus biliousness, constipation, dyspepsia follow close on the heels of one another, forcing together, the seeds of permanent cure, and begetting a numerous progeny of later ailments of more or less severe character. Neglected, incipient rheumatism, malaria and "algia," inactivity of the kidneys, of what dire disaster they are the cause when no or but slight attention is paid to their early warning. Check these "minor" ailments with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters and for a sure and reliable remedy, which exacts the forfeiture of the penalty for disregarding the means of preserving it.

Eve's Daughters. Marion Harland, on pages 103 and 445 of her popular work, "Eve's Daughters; or, Common Sense for Maid, Wife and Mother," says: "For the aching back—should it be slow in recovering its normal strength—an Allcock's Porous Plaster is an excellent counter, combining the sensation of the sustained pressure of a strong warm hand with certain tonic qualities developed in the wearing. It should be kept over the seat of uneasiness for several days—in obstinate cases, for perhaps a fortnight."

For pain in the back wear an Allcock's Porous Plaster constantly, renewing as it wears off. This is an invaluable support when the weight on the small of the back becomes heavy and the aching incessant.

It should be in Every House. J. B. Wilson, 371 Clay St., Sharpshooter, Pa., says he will not be without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, that it cured his wife who was threatened with pneumonia after an attack of "la grippe," when various other remedies and several physicians had done her no good. Robert Barber of Cockcroft, Pa., claims Dr. King's New Discovery has done him more good than anything he ever used for Lung Trouble. Nothing like "No. 1" for Lung Trouble. Trial bottles at W. F. Plummer's Drug Store. Large bottles 50c and $1.00.

A Pure Cure for Piles. Hemorrhoids are known by molar, like perspiration causing intense itching when warm. This form, as well as blood, bleeding and protruding, yield at once to Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly on the parts affected, absorbs tumors, allays itching and effects a permanent cure. See Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy. Sold by S. J. Hodgkinson.

Baby cried, Mother sighed, Doctor prescribed: Castoria!

They also produce a good appetite and invigorate and strengthen the entire system by their tonic action. Sold at 25 cents a box by S. J. Hodgkinson.

AT THE PAVILION.

A Bright Scene in Oriental Coloring.

Beautiful and Unique Tableaux Vivants.

Of the many present last evening at the Woman's Guild Bazar, not one but vied the entertainment a success. From the first tinkling of the bell curtain until the close the audience was kept in rapt attention by the moving scenes: some represented in action and others in repose. Father Time's reception was ably managed by Mrs. Miller, whose ability for such undertakings has been amply shown heretofore when acting in like capacity. The numerous and hearty encores attested the appreciation of the audience for the clever grouping and completeness of detail shown in each picture presented.

The first tableau disclosed Father Time sitting in state waiting for the arrival of his guests. The days of the week first paid their respects—seven little toddlers appropriately costumed. Then trooped in twelve months of the year, represented especially by some of the most charming of Reno's daughters. January covered with frost and snow down to holly-wreathed December. Then came '92 a little prematurely and drove off '91 unconsciously. The New Year in the person of Miss Rolle followed by her attendants pushing a screen behind which the months of '91 half concealed and half disclosed. Valentine's Day was a bit sentimental, as it should be. The departure of the postman loaded with sweet missives; Cupid aiming a dart at the fair recipient of a valentine whose beaming face told the tale. The fifth scene was a well-known one, recognized by all present as belonging to the life of the Father of our Country. Marion Bergstein looked the veritable George as he appeared when reviewing the wreck of the renowned cherry tree, chagrined, remorseful. St. Patrick's Day brought down the house. Six young ladies danced the Irish reel like regular colleens from the "ould sod." Their costumes must have been designed by a native. The applause evoked awoke the echoes. Number seven on the program was a true picture of a day "long and dreary, when the wind and the rain is never weary." Mrs. Layton sang exquisitely and with pathos a verse from Longfellow's beautiful poem, which proved a fitting accompaniment.

St. Patrick's Day was ushered in by a duet behind the scenes between Mrs. Miller and Miss Ada Finlayson. "She is Fooling Thee; Trust Her Not." The value of rich harmony of sweet sounds was recognized and a hearty encore given. The scene disclosed a tennis court, over the net of which leaped the "singles" in tennis flannels, discussing—well, maybe a point in the game. Evidently the young man heeded not the warning given in the song, and "eyes looked love to eyes that spoke again."

No. 10 was a May-pole dance. After the crowning of the May Queen it was a very charming scene, and the hearty applause was well merited. Decoration Day was funeral and weird. Mrs. Miller gave an appropriate reading, with a piano accompaniment.

Wedding Day was one of the most exquisite numbers given. Mrs. Hyman made a charming bride surrounded by her maids, who were adjusting the veil before a pier glass. The Glorious Fourth brought the Goddess of Liberty and the Thirteen Original States, Uncle Sam, an orator, bombs, firecrackers and the usual. Miss Nellie Lewis made an ideal Goddess, "tall and most divinely fair." The Puritan Thanksgiving was an old-time picture, the costumes appropriate to the old Colonial Days.

Let and Easter were companion pieces, one sombre, the other joy and gladness. To-night will be a night for the young and old. The several booths will be presided over by charming young ladies and stately matrons, and first-class music will be provided to dance by, and if anybody attends who does not have a good time it will be because their liver is out of fix or that they are dyspeptic. Give the ladies a booming house again to-night, and while you are enjoying yourself to the fullest extent be happy in the thought that you are helping along a most worthy object. Refreshments will be served for the moderate sum of twenty-five cents and many unique novelties will be introduced.

"The Empress." Miss Gibbs, the fashionable milliner, and proprietor of a fancy goods establishment on Virginia street, has named her emporium "The Empress," and by that name it will hereafter be known. "The Empress" presents the finest display of holiday novelties ever opened in Reno. Don't fail to attend the Xmas opening on November 27th. A large variety of Xmas goods will be displayed.

SHILOH'S VITALIZER is what you need for Constipation, Loss of Appetite, Distress and all symptoms of Dyspepsia. Price 50 cents a bottle. For sale by S. J. Hodgkinson.

THE LODIE FRACTURE.

The Killing of Alfred Welch by His Brother.

The Austin People's Advocate contains the following particulars of the killing of Alfred Welch by his brother at Lodie last Sunday:

Sunday evening Wm. Bodinna arrived in Austin from Lodie bringing the intelligence that Alfred Welch, Superintendent and owner of the Lodie mines, had been shot through the heart by his brother, Manuel Welch, and gave us the following particulars:

Saturday, Alfred said that he was going to Downeyville after his brother Manuel, who had arrived at the latter place, and would return that evening, which he did, bringing his brother with him. Sunday morning the two brothers sat at the same table to breakfast and seemed to all appearances to be on amicable terms. The two men arose from the table and went to Alfred's house, and were there but a few minutes when Mr. Bodinna, who was standing about fifty yards from the house, saw a man standing in the door, when all of a sudden, the man in the door fell on the outside as though he had been struck. Mr. Bodinna did not hear the pistol shot. About the time he saw the man fall, a nephew of the deceased, came up where he (Bodinna) was a landing, and on being told what had occurred, proceeded to the house and found that his uncle Alfred had been shot through the heart by Manuel.

Mr. Bodinna thinks that the pistol must have been held very close to the deceased, as his clothes were badly burned, and those who heard the shot said that it had a muffled sound and no attention was paid to it. The pistol used was of a small caliber. The cause of the shooting is not known, as the murderer offered no explanation, but seemed to be greatly excited. He said that he was going to Downeyville to give himself up to the authorities, which he did and was taken to Lodie and placed in jail. Sunday an inquest was held over the remains, but revealed nothing as to the cause of the killing, but charged Manuel Welch of killing Alfred Welch without cause or provocation.

Monday evening Louis Welch and James Collins arrived in Austin with the remains of the deceased, which were placed in Firemen's Hall and embalmed by the physician and undertaker. Tuesday morning the remains were shipped to Illinois for burial, Louis Welch, a brother, accompanying the remains.

Sudden Death. Mrs. Layne Alexander received the sad news of the death of her father, M. D. Layne, on Monday. He died at Folsom, Cal., on Sunday last. The old gentleman had lived to the ripe age of 74 years. His illness was of short duration. Mr. Layne was well known to many on the meadows, as he had spent much of his time of late years this side of the mountains.

There is None Better. Dr. R. L. St. John of Howland, Putnam county, Missouri, takes especial pleasure in recommending Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, because he knows it to be reliable. He has used it in his practice for several years, and says there is none better. It is especially valuable for colds and is a preventive and cure for croup. This most excellent remedy is for sale by J. B. McCullough, Druggist.

THE TRAFFIC ASSOCIATION.

The Californians Warm Anxious for Nevada to Join Them.

The San Francisco Report says: The Traffic Association has now an income of between $15,000 and $20,000 a year guaranteed by its 116 members of the first class, but this will be greatly increased by the time the regular lists are closed. Notwithstanding this large income, the association does not feel prepared, as yet, to take any steps toward carrying out the association's plans for a little while. The traffic manager must be selected first and this appointment will be made very soon—before many of the association outside of the Executive Committee imagine.

The member of the Executive Committee who was going to Nevada has been compelled to postpone his trip. The association will await the formal communication from the Nevada State Board of Trade, therefore, before taking any steps to learn what Nevada will do for a competing road. The fact that General C. C. Fowning, who introduced the resolutions, has been appointed to represent Nevada in the silver congress, will probably cause some delay in the action of the Nevada merchants and shippers. The members of the Traffic Association Committee are highly delighted and encouraged by Nevada's attitude, and the association will undoubtedly cooperate with the Nevada Board. As soon as the communication is received from Reno, and a meeting is held of the committee, some action will be taken, and it is probable that one of the committeemen will be officially delegated to go to Reno and ascertain what the Nevada people have done.

Closed Down. The Pacific Coast Borax Company have closed down the works at Teels Marsh. The reason assigned is that the company can produce at other marshes borax at less cost and in sufficient quantities to meet the demands made upon them.

Bullies Hobby. The Carson Tribune says: Messrs. Willard & McDonald, who have one of the best paying little mines in Nevada, had their mill robbed at Holbrook last week of amalgam estimated to be worth $1,000. Somebody evidently acquainted with the premises appropriated the amalgam. The owners have their suspicions as to who were the thieves, and have detectives on the lookout.

ORIGIN OF A DYNASTY.

The Royal Family of Serbia Sprang from a Swine Breeder.

Recent cable dispatches stated that ex-Queen Natalie of Serbia was about to begin a lawsuit in the Paris courts against ex-King Milan, her husband, to recover from him $5,000,000 francs of her own money which he has squandered. Unfortunately, Milan is now an impecunious fellow, not possessed of the saving qualities of his ancestors who founded the Obrenovitch dynasty, still represented on the Serbian throne by the young King Alexander. That dynasty in the time of Milosh and Michel was considered the wealthiest in the Balkan peninsula, says the New York Tribune. The old Milosh, a sample swine breeder, after being chosen as the ruler of Serbia and winning his country's independence on the battlefield of Takovo, did not give up his agricultural pursuits. He continued while on the throne to breed and sell swine, which is still the predominant branch of Serbian commerce. He merely consented not to act personally as a merchant, but he became the silent partner of large swine-breeding firms. The business was exceedingly prosperous, and tradition has kept the remembrance of the "enormous quantities of gold" which were received from abroad and consigned to the prince. Moreover, under Milosh's reign no distinction existed between the private revenues of the prince and those of the state. The taxation was sufficient to pay for the tribute still due to Turkey and for the general expenses of the government. The domains of the state, the forests and the fishing grounds on the Danube were exploited exclusively for the benefit of Milosh, who left his son Michel a fortune of more than $4,000,000.

Prince Michel did not follow the example of his father, and gave himself up entirely to governmental cares. Still, he kept his own fortune untouched, though he displayed great luxury at his court, and devoted large amounts of money to the material and intellectual development of Serbia. When he was assassinated in 1888, in the Topchedere park, he left no children, and his heirs were his eldest sister and two nephews from another sister. Young Milan, then a student in a Paris lyceum, succeeded Michel. He possessed an estate in Roumania worth about $100,000, and the regents obtained from the heirs of the late Prince Michel an agreement that they should surrender a large portion of their inheritance to the new prince. Indemnity was given them, under the form of pensions, to be paid by the state. For instance, there is still living in Vienna, Austria, M. Velimir Todorovitch, a natural son of Prince Michel, who received at that time a grant of 30,000 francs, together with the estate of Nego, in Roumania. In his accession to the throne, Milan found himself at the head of a private fortune of about $1,000,000, besides a civil list which reached $240,000 a year—an enormous sum for such a small country. But in 1877, at the beginning of the Russian-Turkish war, Milan sold his real estate and promptly squandered the proceeds; and, in fact, the

GIANTS OF THE CORDILLERAS.

They Guard Fabulous Treasures of Gold and Silver in their Mountains.

In western Patagonia, among the Cordilleras mountains, dwell the giants of whom so many big stories have been told. As a matter of fact these Araucanians, as they are called, are rarely under six feet in height and sometimes reach eight feet, seven foot men being not infrequent, says the Philadelphia Press. Though mildly disposed, they admit no strangers to their territory, and by stubborn resistance they have compelled Chili to let them alone. Fabulous treasures of gold and silver are believed to be stored away in their mountains, but prospectors who have ventured thither have always been driven away. They commonly adorn themselves with rich and heavy ornaments of these precious metals. The greater part of Patagonia belongs now to the Argentine Republic, Chili holding by treaty the strip along the Pacific coast, which continues its shoe-straddle territory for nearly half the length of South America.

Most of the country is a desert waste, cold of climate and contrasting strongly with the richly productive pampas or plains of the southern Argentine. These pampas are remarkable for the strange illusions which beset the eye of the traveler who journeys over them. On any bright day a distant thistle field is as like as not to be transformed seemingly into a forest, while a few clumps of grass will take on the appearance of a troop of horsemen. Mirages are constantly in view, frequently offering a delusive prospect of water, by which men are often deceived but their horses never.

Very satisfactory results are now being obtained by some of the English paper manufacturers in bleaching paper by electricity, the process rendering the paper perfectly white, without in the least injuring its strength. The process in question depends on the use of a solution of magnesium chloride, which is decomposed by the action of a strong electric current into chlorine and oxygen on the one hand, and into magnesium and hydrogen on the other. Plates of platinum are used as electrodes.

Good Place for Tramps.

It is said that between the island of Madagascar and the coast of India there are sixteen thousand islands, only six hundred of which are inhabited. On any of these islands a man can live and support his family in princely luxury, without working more than twenty-five days in the year. In fact, on some of these islands he need not work at all, as nature provides the food and no clothes are required.

Fond of His Frau.

The German emperor is said to be extremely fond of his big, kind-hearted blonde frau, and is reported as saying: "I could wish no better to the men of my nation than that the girls would follow the example of their empress in detaching their lives as she does to the cultivation of the three K's—the kitchen, the kinder and die kuche" (the church, the children and the cuisine).

"August Flower"

The Hon. J. W. Fennimore is the Sheriff of Kent Co., Del., and lives at Dover, the County Seat and Capital of the State. The sheriff is a gentleman fifty-nine years of age, and this is what he says: "I have used your August Flower for several years in my family and for my own use, and found it does me more good than any other remedy. I have been troubled with what I call Sick Headache. A pain comes in the back part of my head first, and then soon a general headache until I become sick and vomit. At times, too, I have a fullness after eating, a pressure after eating at the pit of the stomach, and sourness, when food seemed to rise up in my throat and mouth. When I feel this coming on I take a little August Flower it relieves me, and is the best remedy I have ever taken for it. For this reason I take it and recommend it to others as a great remedy for Dyspepsia, &c."

A Severe Law.

The English people look more closely to the genuineness of these staples than we do. In fact, they have a law under which they make seizures and destroy adulterated products that are not what they are represented to be. Under this statute thousands of pounds of tea have been burned because of their wholesale adulteration.

Tea, by the way, is one of the most notoriously adulterated articles of commerce. Not alone are the bright, shiny green teas artificially colored, but thousands of pounds of substitutes for tea leaves are used to swell the bulk of cheap teas; ash, also, and willow leaves being those most commonly used. Again, sweepings from tea warehouses are colored and sold as tea. Even exhausted tea leaves gathered from the tea-houses are kept, dried, and made over and find their way into the cheap teas.

The English government attempts to stamp this out by confiscation; but no tea is too poor for use, and the result is, that probably the poorest tea used by any nation is those consumed in America.

Beech's Tea is presented with the guarantee that it is uncolored and unadulterated; in fact, the sun-dried tea leaf pure and simple. Its purity insures superior strength, about one third less of it being required for an infusion than the artificial teas, and its fragrance and exquisite flavor is at once apparent. It will be a revelation to you. In order that its purity and quality may be guaranteed, it is sold only in pound packages bearing this trade-mark:
